A suit has been brought against the city of Philadelphia for $100,000 for the burning of St. Augustine church by a mob, during the celebrated riots. The suit is brought in the name of the "Brothers of the Order of Hermits of St. Augustine." The county commissioners of Philadelphia oppose the claim on the ground that the Hermits of St. Augustine being a branch of a foreign society, and being under the control of a foreign potentate, the Pope of Rome, could of right hold no charter under the law of this country. As they have been in the receipt of an income two or three fold greater than the tharter allowed, it is contended that the charter is also void.
